Welcome to European Real Estate Society Webpage

The European Real Estate Society (ERES) was established in 1994 to create an international real estate network between academics and professionals across Europe. ERES is dedicated to promoting and advancing the real estate discipline and specifically property based research throughout Europe. The Society incorporates national research societies, academic researchers, practitioners and doctoral students engaged in real estate. The core activities of ERES include an annual conference, industry seminars and education seminars.

The Journal of European Real Estate Research published in partnership with ERES provides a forum for the dissemination of research articles, information flow and debate on European real estate issues.

ERES is a non-profit organisation affiliated to the International Real Estate Society, an organisation which provides a wider contact base in real estate co-operation at a global level.
